

Craig's List Job Ad for Caregiver

I am a 39 year old male quadriplegic looking for someone to come in and help me get dressed, showered, toileting, cleaning, laundry, and whatever else may come up.

I am looking for a caregiver who lives in, or near, [name of city], has their own transportation, and is trustworthy and dependable. The shifts I am looking to fill are somewhat flexible, but what I am looking for specifically right now is someone to relieve my live-in caregiver on the weekend.

Shifts:

- Saturday & Sunday morning 9am-12pm (3 hours ea)
- Saturday night 11pm-12am (1 hour)
- Sunday night 10pm-11pm (1 hour)

I may have a couple other one hour night shifts available during the week if interested. Flexibility to cover the occasional morning shift would be great.

A little about me. I have been a quadriplegic for over 16 years. I have a home here with a roommate, who is also my caregiver, and a spunky golden retriever who doubles as my public relations ambassador. I work as a graphic designer, and in my off time I enjoy relaxing in the outdoors with my dog and good friends.

Please reply to this with some info about yourself and attach a resume if you have one. Let me know where you live, if you have a car, and if you're available for all the shifts.
